

As I looked out the window of my office on a snowy day in December, all I could think about was where I would end up going on vacation at the end of the month. I decided to leave my options open this year, and wait for a good deal to pop up. As I stared at my computer screen, surfing the web, one travel site caught my eye, and it was a site for cruises to the Bahamas and the Mediterranean. I immediately picked up the phone and called my travel agent eager to get the planning underway. After talking over all the options, and finding out that the Bahamas trip would be cheaper than the trip to the Mediterranean, I decided that the best option would be going to the Bahamas, so I went off to tell my family where we were going at the end of December.